Circular economy waste to value opportunity for change-makers who want to be at the forefront of an initiative to make a difference in the community!

Harp Renewables are looking for changemakers to become part of a dynamic team who are leading the way to change the cycle of food waste going to landfill. Disney, Nike and many large corporates are installing the Harp Renewables waste to value system as a pillar of their sustainability programs.

Create your own independence and income stream whilst reducing greenhouse gasses and improving the environment. The roll out program incorporates a schools based education element to inform students of the power of carbon reduction and circular economy benefits.

Harp Renewables provides a true Waste to Value solution for dealing with food & organic waste. The Biodigester systems are built in Ireland and convert food waste to nutrient rich fertiliser within 24-hours. Using world first carbon accounting and remote monitoring technologies it enables real time monitoring of carbon footprint and greenhouse gas reduction levels.

Harp Renewables Biodigesters take what is considered an environmental pollutant, and a liability of zero value and convert it into a valuable marketable product that reduces carbon output, grows new and chemical free foods, and generates an income stream for those who wish to make a difference to the future of our planet.
