Leading HR SAAS and Advisory Business | Sydney NSW

Our client operates a professional services business in the HR sector utilising industry leading technology to add value to its wide client base.

The business has a number of income streams including software subscriptions, consulting and professional advisory fees. Most recent annual revenue levels are in excess of $1.1m, with much of this being on an annual recurring basis and generating high margins.

The business has recently completed a significant reorganisation and has identified a range of growth opportunities as a result. There is a full management team in place.

The business would add significant value to any business operating in the people services sector or in wider professional services. Equally, it could suit a HR executive looking to operate and further grow a successful business.

The business operates from Sydney. The current owners are available for a comprehensive business transition.

Registrations of Interest are sought for the business, which is offered for sale as a going concern.
